National politics are very interesting just now, but the affairs of the State much more directly concern us, and just now there is need of giving them serious consideration. Come out then, fellow citizens, at the ringing of the Court House bell, and take counsel with one another, and hear what Gov. Jacon may have to say for himself and respecting affairs in West Virginia.

The Governor arrived in the city this morning at half past two, and is stopping at the St. James Hotel.

Mr. Firznugu, of Kanawha, is also in the city, and will probably do some plain talking about the way the Syndicate has been managing things at Charleston and Parkersburg. Mr. FITZHUGH is an enterto say will be worth hearing.

The Baltimore Convention.

The Baltimore Convention spent yesterday in routine and preliminary work and now have all things ready for the ous amendments, agreed to report the Cincinnati platform pure and simple. There is but one opinion about the nomination of GREELEY and BROWN. The opposition, of which there is some, is powerless to stay the tide. It is expected the nominations will be made promptly and that the Convention will adjourn this afternoon.
